Serial No.

From

Mr. G. H. Krumbiegel. Residency Road Bangalore

letter d 2. 8. 1939

thanking Govt for accepting him as a State subject

From

The Secretary to the Hon'ble the Resident

letter No.) 7875/39- Pol dated 3-8-1939

stating that before Mr. Krumbiegel can be accepted as a State subject, the Crown Representative's Prior Consent is necessary and referring to another letter, Viz:—

From

The Secretary to the Hon'ble the Resident

letter R Dis No. F 462-39/ Pol dated 3-8-1939

stating that the Crown Representative has decided to reserve to himself the discretion to permit foreigners being accepted as State Subjects and laying down Certain Conditions to be satisfied before a foreigner can be naturalised by an Indian State.

It is stated that the previous consent of the Crown Representative is necessary before an Indian State can confer the status of a State subject on a foreign national This condition precedent does not seem to be necessary where the foreigner is a British Subject, a British protected person or a person naturalized under the Indian Naturalization Act,1926. (Para 1 of P.U.D. II. But the 3rd line of para 2 seems to imply that the consent is necessary even in such cases).

The conditions which the letter requires to be satisfied before a foreigner (other than those enumerated above) can be accepted as a State subject are the following:-

1. That naturalisation should depend in the first instance upon State law.

It is not clear from this whether legislation is required to be enacted for this purpose before a person can be naturalised.

2. The consent of the Crown Representative has to be obtained before naturalising a foreigner.

It is stated that this consent will not ordinarily be given if the foreigner does not do his best to divest himself of his foreign nationality unless the loss of foreign nationality follows automatically from his naturalisation by a State. What will make a foreigner lose his nationality will depend on the law of the State to which he owes allegiance.

The character of the individual is also stated to be most material. The third condition set out below is also required to be satisfied.

Qualifications should be required not less strict than those required under the British law or the British Indian Act

Under the British Nationality and Status of Aliens

Serial No.

Act, 1914 (section 2), an alien who applies may be naturalised if he,

(a) is of good character and has an adequate knowledge of the English language, and

(b) has resided in the United Kingdom for at least one year immediately preceding the application and for at least four years within the last eight years before the application, and

(c) intends to reside ~~permanently~~ in the British Dominions, if his application is granted.

Under the Indian Naturalisation Act, 1926 (section 3), the applicant should satisfy the Government that,

(a) he is not a minor,

(b) that he is neither a British subject nor a subject of any State in Europe or America or of any State of which an Indian British subject is prevented by or under any law from becoming a subject by naturalisation,

(c) that he has resided in British India for at least five years before application,

(d) that he is of good character,

(e) that he has an adequate knowledge of the principal vernacular language of the province, and

(f) that he intends to reside in British India, his application is granted.

4. The fourth condition laid down in the letter is that the status thus obtained will not be that of a British subject but only of a British protected

pers

In regard to this point it may be observed that even State subjects by birth are not British subjects but only British protected persons. It is stated in Dicey (5th edition), "... and the natives of the native States in India, which do not form part of British India, are not British subjects for purposes of English law. (page 145).... For the purposes of International law, British protection is extended to persons naturalised only in a British possession. Such protection is also granted to other natives of the native States in India, of protected States, of Protectorates and to the nationals of mandated territories. (foot note C, page 170)'

5. That no undertaking in any particular case will be given in advance is also made clear.

The conferment of the status after all these preliminaries are undergone is not to affect the existing provisions regarding jurisdiction of State Courts over Europeans and Americans or regarding their employment by the State.

Consequential upon this, the privilege we had till now of certifying a foreigner as a Mysore State subject by domicile for purposes of getting him a passport as a British protected person is also taken away and it is stated that hereafter no passport will be issued unless the prior consent of the Crown Representative a foreigner on the strength of a certificate of recommendation by a State, no passport would now be issued unless the foreigner satisfies that his change of status as a State subject has been approved by the Crown Representative. In other words, the State has to confer the status of State subject on a foreigner with the previous Consent of the Crown Representative, before it can recommend his case for a passport.

It seems that whenever applications come up to Govt hereafter, for treating the applicants as State subjects, each individual case has to be examined and if the State decides to adopt any applicant as its subject, a recommendation has to be made, with the required particulars, to Govt for obtaining the necessary permission of the Crown Representative.

It is for orders wherein in view of the instructions contained in the P.W.D., the necessary particulars may be called for from the Krishnagiri

ROKR
15.8.31

Law Secy

It is stated that the Crown Representative has decided that without his previous Consent

Serial No.

Naturalisation Act should confer the status of a State Subject on any foreign national his decision appears to be due to the fact that a foreigner on whom the status of state subject is conferred would become a British protected person & this would involve the British Govt in international responsibilities regarding him

2. Applications from foreigners who wish to become state subjects would have to be forwarded thro' the Crown Representative

3. As a corollary to the above decision it has also been decided that no foreigner can obtain a passport as a State Subject unless he can shew that his change of status has been approved by the Crown Representative This restriction will apply only if he asks for a passport as a State Subject Keeping his status as foreigner, he would presumably have to get a passport as heretofore

Subject.—

Natuaralization of foreigners by Indian States.

Owing to the recent influx of a large number of foreign nationals into India, the general question of naturalization of such foreigners by Indian States has assumed some importance. The Residency in their letter of the 3rd August 1939 have written to say that the Crown Representative has now decided to reserve to himself the discretion to permit an Indian State to accept a foreigner as a State subject and that without his previous consent no Indian State should confer the status of a State subject on a foreigner.

The papers on this subject are submitted for the gracious perusal of His Highness.

SIR,

3/8 4/8 5.8.39 5-8-39 7.8.39 6/8

I am directed to say that owing to the recent influx into India of foreign nationals, and to the possibility that some of them who migrate into Indian States will sooner or later seek to acquire the nationality of the State concerned, the Crown Representative has been compelled to consider the general question of the naturalisation of foreigners by Indian States. He has carefully examined the problem in all its bearings having regard particularly to the fact that Indian States possess no independent international status, inasmuch as their external affairs are conducted on their behalf by the Paramount Power. It is clear that the authority to decide the policy in this matter must vest solely in the Crown Representative. In determining that policy the Crown Representative has been bound to recognise that if the power to confer the status of State subjects on foreigners were to be delegated unrestrictedly to Indian States, the exercise of that power might very possibly involve His Majesty's Government in international complications. The Crown Representative has therefore decided to reserve discretion to himself and to declare that without his previous consent no Indian State should confer the status of a State subject on any foreign national other than a British subject, a British protected person or a person naturalised under the Indian

Naturalisa

Naturalisation Act, 1926.

2. Consent to naturalisation by a State in any individual case would not ordinarily be given if the person to be naturalised possesses non-British nationality unless he divests himself or does his best to divest himself of his foreign nationality or unless the loss of that foreign nationality follows automatically from his naturalisation by a State. The Crown Representative will also expect requirements in respect of residence etc. analogous to those laid down in the Indian Naturalisation Act, 1926, to be satisfied in each individual case so that in no case should it be easier to acquire State nationality than it is to acquire local British nationality under that Act. Moreover, the character of the individual to be naturalised would be a most relevant consideration.

3. The conferment of the status of a State subject upon a European or an American with the consent of the Crown Representative, or, in cases in which this consent is not necessary, without it, would not be regarded by the Crown Representative as altering in any way the position of such a European or an American or of his descendants in regard to the jurisdiction of State Courts over them or in regard to their employment by a State.

4. In order to implement the decision now reached it has been decided that no passport will be issued to a foreigner naturalised as a State subject, i.e. a naturalised British protected person, unless he can show to the satisfaction of the passport issuing authority that his change of status has been approved by the Crown Representative.

5. I am to request that any legislation which the Government of Mysore may at any time enact for the purposes of defining State subjects may be so framed as not to conflict with any of the provisions of the letter.

M y s o r e make enquiries regarding their prospects of obtaining State nationality, they should be informed on the following lines:-

(i) that their naturalisation would depend in the first instance upon State law;

(ii) that it would be necessary for the State to obtain the consent of the Crown Representative before naturalising a foreigner;

(iii) that for the above consent qualifications would be required not less strict than those required under the British law for the naturalisation of aliens as British subjects;

(iv) that the status obtained would be not that of a British subject, but only of a British protected person; and lastly,

(v) that no undertaking in regard to any individual case can be given in advance.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Sir,

I am in receipt of your letter No.P1321 of even date, and in compliance therewith furnish the information required.

1. Age. I am 74 years of age in December next.

2. By birth I am of German Nationality, I had however not maintained it but with some difficulty obtained a German travelling passport in 1932 when I was sent on deputation to England. I have several times made inquiries regarding my British naturalisation but in each case found that my residence in an Indian State precluded this until in the begining of this year I sent a full list of periods I spent in British India to the Secretary to the Hnbl the Resident in Mysore. His reply I forwarded with my letter of 11. 7. '39 to Sir Mirza which opened the possibility of being accepted as a subject of the Mysore State. I have no obligations Military or Civil to Germany, and hold that naturalisation here automatically cancels my German nationality. I have asked the German Consul to confirm this as per copy enclosed.

3. Length of stay in Mysore. I left Germany in 1888 for England-Kew Gardens, and was appointed from there in 1893 to Baroda, and from there to the Mysore service in 1908, thus I have been in England and India over 51 years of which the stay in Mysore comes to nearly 32 years,

4. I intend to continue to stay in Mysore as my work and the climate here are congenial, and my large family- mostly of british connection by birth or marriage are dependant on me.

I am confident that regards my work and character His Highnesses Government will add their testimonial, and I believe H.E. Lord Linlithgow will remember me from the personal discussion of the work I did in connection with Virus and Serium production and combating Rinderpest in which he was specially interested

Dear Sir,

Having been over 30 years in the Mysore Service, having my large family and propertyhere, and intending to continue to reside in Mysore State, the Government of Mysore have consented to my naturalisation as a subject of His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore. In order to obtain the consent of the Crown Representative I have to assure the State authorities that with the naturalisation in Mysore I have no further claim on the German Nationality, and that this is automatically cancelled by naturalisation in Mysore. I shall feel extremely obliged if you will kindly confirm this.

I have no military or civil obligations in Germany, and enclose my military pass to show that my going to England in 1888 and subsequently to India in 1893 are in order, The renewal of my German travelling pass is then not necessary.
